The capital market is a modern day reality, an ever-changing and adaptive market proportioning both risk and investment at the same time. In a country like India, where we possess the gifts of natural resources and extensive human capital, the only thing lacking is capital to put these resources to use and this gives even more importance to the capital market. A capital market includes primary and secondary market and in India it is a well- integrated structure with Issuers, Stock Exchangers, Merchant Bankers, Investors, Stock Brokers, Depositories, Depository Participants and a Market Regulator. It is imperative to note that the contribution of the capital market is only possible if the Market Regulator is effective as this ensure investor interest protection and investor confidence leading to a growth oriented securities market.

Paper Presentation and Panel discussion on “Impact of Goods and Service Taxes on Business” held on 25th February 2017.

Goods and Services Tax (GST) is a comprehensive tax levy on manufacture, sale and consumption of goods and services at a national level. One of the biggest taxation reforms in India the (GST) is all set to integrate State economies and boost overall growth. Currently, companies and businesses pay lot of indirect taxes such as VAT, service tax, sales tax, entertainment tax, Octroi and luxury tax. Once GST is implemented, all these taxes would cease to exist. GST is also different in the way it is levied — at the final point of consumption and not at the manufacturing stage. At present, separate tax rates are applied to goods and services. It would end distortions of differential treatments of manufacturing and service sector. It will also improve government's fiscal health as the tax collection system would become more transparent, making tax evasion difficult. An attempt is made in this paper to study the concept of goods and service tax and its impact on Indian Business. Chartered Account Shri P. Jha gave his expert inputs with students presenting papers the program gave in depth understanding of the proposed GST. Under IQAC, four groups presented papers with Gr4 getting the first prize.
