Concept Note

Unemployment is a universal phenomenon. Even developed countries, despite their less population have unemployment issues. Recently, the economic survey (2023-2024) explores concern on unemployment, wherein around 80 lakh jobs are targeted per annum in order to mitigate unemployment problem. But it has been expected that private sector will come up for such a huge challenge. This again invites concern for improvement and renovation in existing industries, as well as investment in private sector-companies/start-ups/business/trade etc for the creation of job and meet the job demand and achieve the target of VIKSIT BHARAT@2047.

More so, in order to Make in India, Made in India, Innovative India and Creative India, more successful, IP investment in industries is essentially important. Whereas the economic survey or the industrial policy is silent on this aspect as to how much Intellectual Property (IP) investment is required in terms of money and how many jobs can be created to meet the goals of 80 lakh jobs per annum. Further, the Central Government has codified the labour code which is yet to be enforced. The question arises as to how far this codified labour laws are going to encourage job creation in industries and safeguard the interest of working class. IP investment is concerned with technological innovation and business creation which further promotes industrial growth and job creations. How to achieve the goal discussed in the economic survey 2023-24? Hence, thus National Workshop to find the ways out. This workshop has four components:

1. Intellectual property creation, registration and investment in industry, trade and commerce.
2. Investment of IP in industry, efficiency and increase in production and job creation.
3. Codification of labour laws- how far does it promotes employment opportunities in organised/unorganised sector.
4. Protection and welfare of workforce and social justice.
